UPGRADE ANY BIKE...

...to handle like a pro model. Hi tech, new light weight design and factory direct buying create a custom experience at price you can afford!

"Access is a good pick for any mountain bike buyer who wants the custom bike experience but can't come up with the bucks."

– Mountain Bike Action Magazine

3.7Lb-18"

–Average of 8 oz. (230gm) lighter than last year's model!

access® XCL

"Take a look at the Access XCL frame – a nicely finished 7005 Butted Aluminum hardtail with good geometry..."

"It jets up any climb and cruises the flats with power. It has a nice and stiff rear end that puts the pedal power to the ground. You won't have any excuses on any climb with this frame... The familiar handling lets you snake through singletrack and pick your line through the rough sections."

Mountain Biking Magazine
Sept. 2002

$149
Frame, Post, Seat Clamp

Big 51mm diameter multi-shaped, triple butted downtube with external gusset.

Forged & machined dropouts are stiff, functional and elegant. Disc-ready and comes with a replaceable derailleur hanger.

"S" bend stiffens seat stays and positions brake bosses in more central location.

2003 ACCESS XCL FRAME

Designed to meet the frame needs of serious enthusiasts who understand the benefits of a frame upgrade. The XCL frame is an upgrade to any bike except those with exotic tubing such as titanium, scandium and Easton. But XCL is aimed primarily at bikes in the $500-$1000 range, and to cyclists who are building a bike from scratch.

Mountain Bike Action Magazine described the original Access as a "classic NORBA race ready design." Other magazines and actual owner reviews (see: www.mtbr.com & www.supergo.com/ access) have given Access frames a loyal following among all types of riders.

The new 2003 Access continues that tradition with several important improvements.

Computer Aided Design has opened new possibilities in aluminum tube butting and manipulation. The result is an XCL model that is 8 ounces lighter than last year's ALU model. Yet, the XCL is a stiff and rugged frame with excellent handling characteristics. Beautifully sculptured forged dropouts, a lightweight externally machined head tube, reinforced downtube gusset, and a lighter thin-walled seat tube. The big 51mm diameter triple butted downtube serves as the backbone. 71/73 degree geometry ensures a balanced, predictable, ride even with a 100mm travel fork. Sturdy disc brake mounts are part of the dropout forging. The black anodized derailleur hanger is replaceable ($9.95).

Access didn't compromise on the finish either. Five classic popular colors allows you to stylize to the fork and other components. The epoxy powder coat paint finish is flawless, even, orange-peel free, and scratch-resistant. Powder coating is far more environmentally friendly, too. Includes a lightweight 3-D forged, 2014 series aluminum seat post with bead blast-black anodized finish and a very clean black alloy seat tube clamp. Even the bottle screws are special. Black ano aluminum.

As featured in the June/03 Issue of Bicycling Magazine! "Big Performance, Little Price"*, pg. 74

"The Weyless SP offers a solid ride for the average paycheck. The SP demonstrates how good today's affordable suspension bikes can be. The well-executed frame has smooth paint, good cable routing, sealed bearing pivots and even some tube shaping. The SP's frame surprised us with its stiffness and solid handling. There's quick response on small bumps and fine control on big hits... Verdict: One of the best affordable suspension bikes we've tried."

One of the most proven & trusted XC suspension designs ever!

The Weyless SP is a true high-performance single-pivot XC suspension frame at an untouchable price! Butted 7000-series aluminum tubing, oversized single cartridge bearing pivot and redesigned CNC machined pivot bracket ensure lightweight performance and total reliability. Other refinements for 2003 include a lowered main pivot for more active performance on small and mid-sized impacts and top-routed cables with disc tubing guides.

Your choice of the proven Fox Float RL or new Manitou QL air shock, each delivers world-class suspension performance and include a static lockout lever for bob-free climbs and sprints.

"Very impressive. The non-gusseted frame built from Easton RAD 7005 aluminum tubing remained rigid under severe poundings. We never dropped a chain and there was no excessive wheel, drivetrain, or component chatter... the Weyless 67 delivers the downhill and big-hit goods."

Mountain Bike Action, March/03

Mountain Biking Magazine, March/03

"Easton RAD tubing, top choice for freeride appliances... proven and simple single pivot design... It doesn't matter whether you run the 6" or 7", the bike climbs with virtually the same remarkable bob-less performance due to the rear shock's Stable Platform Technology... We were stoked that the Weyless features a shock with a long 2.75" stroke that creates a great suspension ratio of 2.18:1 in the 6" and 2.54:1 in the 7" setting... The rear end can handle just about anything on the trail from rocky chutes, to huge drops, to flat. One of the best features is weight—only 35.9 lbs... You can throw the bike around on the trail and in the air with ease... The package you get with the Freeride 67 is dialed, providing a great platform for all- around freeriding and the option of hitting big stuff. This great value is only offered at Supergo."

Weyless FreeRide 67 is the first 6" to 7" of adjustable rear travel frame under $700!

Most bike shops buy from distributors. But our large volume allows us to buy Weyless factory-direct, eliminating the layer of overhead that's included in the price of other frames. Also, no expensive team, trade shows, sales reps to be subsidized by our Weyless owners. Everything in the FreeRide 67's price is design, quality materials, and superb manufacturing. The Easton RAD main tubeset is the strongest and best option for hardcore, tapering radically from round at the seat tube to square at the head tube for incredible front-end strength. The swingarm pivots on massive sealed cartridge bearings, and it's compatible with both Disc and V-Brakes! The uninterrupted seat tube allows dropping the saddle for technical descents and like all respectable freeride frames, it's perfectly compatible with triple front chainrings.

6" or 7" settings for rear shock

The RockShox Pro Delux rear shock features adjustable compression and rebound damping, allows tuning out pedal-induced feedback without sacrificing small-bump performance. The long stroke & oversized shaft decreases pressure on the seals to ensure durability in all conditions. A single Allen key quickly converts the rear mount between 6" or 7" of travel, and the nitrogen-charged reservoir adds extra insurance against bottoming on big hits!

Easton RAD tubeset

Freeride-Optimized Geometry. Developed through extensive field testing, with a head tube angle that varies from 69° with a single crown 5" fork to an extra-slack 66° with a 7" dual crown fork. These relaxed angles inspire confidence on even the steepest drops! BB height varies from 14.25"(6" w/5" fork) to 15" (6" w/5" fork) for excellent clearance on rocky terrain and the slightly stretched top tubes are perfect when combined with a shorter freeride-length stem. Includes Weyless 2014-T6 3D forged alloy seatpost.

GO BIG!

...without going broke

MANITOU SWINGER REAR SHOCK

One of the most advanced rear shocks available, the Manitou Swinger features Stable Platform Valving (SPV) to improve pedaling performance by providing an adjustable "platform" of resistance, helping to reduce bobbing and unwanted suspension movement without affecting impact performance. With its 6-way adjustability, the Swinger is tunable for nearly any conditions, with independent low and high-speed compression settings, adjustable rebound damping, adjustable preload and adjustable pressure and volume within the air-charged piggyback reservoir.

Fully Built & Ready to Roll!

For those looking to roll away on a fully-equipped Freeride bike, the 67 is available with an incredible component kit custom designed for abusive riders and tough environments! From the strength of an oversized bottom bracket, to the massive stopping power of dual 8" rotors, to the stunning suspension performance of the Manitou Sherman fork and Swinger 6-way Adjustable rear shock, the 67 leaves nothing to chance!

The Tech On Scandium

A rare earth element, Scandium is a beneficial additive to aluminum as a grain refiner and recrystallization inhibitor. Typical aluminum has a relatively low yield strength, and to compensate, bicycle frames have relied on large diameter tubes for strength, which translates to an extremely stiff and unforgiving ride. Scandium changed all this, allowing aluminum frames with improved strength and a smoother, more comfortable ride.
