Tourmalet™

853 Steel Alloy

[Too-er-mah-lay] A 2,115-meter-high pass in the French Pyrenees. The Tourmalet is a fabled Tour de France pass, site of many epic battles. On the Tourmalet in 1990, overworked but stubborn, Greg LeMond attacked again and again, chipping away at Claudio Chiappucci's lead. Soon, LeMond reclaimed the yellow jersey winning his third Tour.

A Tourmalet, despite its reasonable price, is made from Reynolds steel tubing, a strategic mix of 853 and 525. Its LeMond Geometry means you sit on it in that balanced position we always mention, and it rides and handles in a way that riders always like. We make Tourmalets in eight sizes; you can surely find a perfect fit. Each size has size-specific handlebar width, stem length and crankarm length. If you're normally proportioned, your new bike may fit you perfectly on initial assembly. LeMond Tourmalet bicycles will be equipped with Shimano Tiagra groups, double or triple cranksets at your option. Reynolds, Shimano, LeMond Geometry... good company for the miles ahead.

We have never offered a LeMond as affordable as the new Nevada City. We have never tried anything at the NC's price-point that we felt rode like a LeMond – until we built up and rode a LeMond Geometry, Reynolds 853 Select frame. It rode and handled like a thoroughbred, like a LeMond. You'll feel balanced over the bike in a position of control and power, just like other LeMonds. Each Nevada City (8 sizes!) comes with three chainrings so you and your bike can go nearly anywhere, up the steepest hills. It has proven Shimano STI shifting, strong, light 32-spoke wheels, a fine San Marco saddle. And it's a real LeMond. Only affordable.

Nevada City™

853 Steel Alloy

[Nevada City] For 40 years, the Nevada City Classic has been northern California's most honored race. A lap race through downtown streets, the course either climbs or plummets: no flat sections, no place to rest. Greg LeMond, who lived not far away in Nevada, appeared at the Classic as a Junior in the mid-'70s, looking about 12 years old, and cleaned everyone's clocks. As cycling fans say, he stamped his name on the race, and earned his nickname: Le Monster. Nevada City's a perfect name for a LeMond model. Greg imprinted his name on the Nevada City Classic. Now he's put Nevada City's name on a LeMond.
